RE: Open HUB

Dear David,

Thank you for contacting Black Duck concerning your use of certain Open HUB derived data. Black Duck is supportive of your work with the Institute for Defense Analytics on behalf of the Linux Foundation and Homeland Security to identify OSS projects that could use some help with respect to security (the “Work”) and is pleased to assist.

While the terms of use at Black Duck’s Open HUB site (the “Site”) are restrictive concerning the republication of data derived from the Site, Black Duck hereby agrees to make exceptions to those terms. In particular, as it relates to the Work, Black Duck agrees:

- 1) You may republish extracted data and metrics from the Site, at your discretion, provided that you do not simply redistribute wholesale data derived from the Site; and
- 2) Any requirement that you anonymize project IDs and names is waived.

In consideration of the foregoing, you agree to provide proper attribution to Black Duck. Please replicate, where applicable, the following attribution notice, “Data sourced from the Black Duck Open HUB, a free online community resource for discovering, evaluating, tracking and comparing open source code and projects.” In the event that the data is quoted in text, please identify the source of that data by referring to it at “Black Duck data” or “data from Black Duck.”

If you have any additional questions on this matter, please let me know. Thank you again for reaching out to us and allowing us to assist you.

Sincerely,

DocuSigned by:
